EXTRA HOUSE STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

Occupant Suffers Severe Shock—
Gas Pipe Wrenched Loose
From Fittings.

ANOTHER NEAR-ACCIDENT

Mother and Daughter Got Out of the Buggy as Horse and Rig Went Down Embankment.

During the severe wind and rain storm this afternoon the home of Joseph Demmer, on the corner of Ninth and Oliver streets, was struck by lightning, but fortunately little damage was done. A few bricks were knocked off the chimney where the bolt struck, the plastering cracked in several rooms, the stove pipe torn loose and sent sailing across the room, and the gas pipe, where the bolt grounded, was blown out of position, causing the room to fill with gas. For a time this threatened to cause disaster.

Mrs. Anthony Geraghty of Elkhart, who was visiting at the Demmer home, was shocked by the lightning, but recovered in about a half hour.

Mrs. W. H. Crane and daughter, living south of the city, had a narrow escape from serious injury during the storm. They were driving to this city in a buggy when the storm came up and realizing their perilous position, with a steep embankment on either side, they got out of the rig. Not a second too soon did they take this precaution for in another instant the buggy and horse tumbled down the embankment. The rig was demolished and the horse sustained a number of painful wounds on the body and head.

Shortly after four o'clock fire was discovered in the dining room in the A. L. Aldridge home in North Perkins street. The fire came about in an unusual manner. Lightning struck one of the electric wires leading to the house and caused the gas pipe in the chandelier to become loose. The flash caused the gas to ignite and a flame two feet long shot out from the ceiling. For a time it looked as if the house was doomed. Mr. Aldridge succeeded in turning off the gas in the basement before much damage was done by the fire. The fire alarm system failed to work.

CRUSADE AGAINST LUNGERS

Philadelphia, May 15.—Five hundred girls, averaging 12 years old, form one of the choruses which aided in the concert in the Academy of Music last night to start a fund to install free beds for the poor in the White Haven Sanitarium for Consumptives.

The interest shown by the young in the crusade against tuberculosis surprised the central committee of the women's auxiliaries of the sanitarium, when the call for volunteer singers were issued. The response was unprecedented.

COUNTERFEIT BILL IS OUT

Shows Very Crude Workmanship in the Main.

A counterfeit Two-dollar silver certificate of the series of 1899, check letter B: W. T. Vernon, register, and Charles H. Treet, Treasurer, has appeared. The mechanical work in the bill is poor, the numbering is of a lighter blue than the genuine, while the seal is a darker blue. The back of the note is a lighter green than the genuine and there is no silk fiber.

RESPECT IS DUE THE OLD SOLDIER

Memorial Day Should be Marked by a General Participation of All Citizens.

TOO OFTEN GIVEN TO SPORTS

Memorial day, in honor of our ex-soldiers, dead and living, will soon be here and it is time for a word of appeal to the people, who now enjoy the blessings of our land, that this day should be better observed than it has been in some places, and at some times in the past two years or so. It should be marked by a general participation of our citizens in services on the day. There is no better occasion upon which to emphasize the lesson of patriotism to the young, by precept and example, than upon this day. The G. A. R. and kindred societies lead in the solemn duties of the memorial exercises, but too often it has been noticed that there is a tendency to indifference on the part of a large portion of the public. The holiday is used too often for sport and amusement. Some years ago it was charged that President of the United States went fishing on Decoration Day. Whether this was true or not, too many have followed that breach of the respect due to the dead and the living.

OPERA HOUSE HAS MADE GOOD MONEY

The K. of P. Amusement House at Greensburg Will Net $1800
Above Expenses.

IS VERY CREDITABLE SHOWING

It is a pleasure to note that the K. of P. opera house is more than paying its way says the Greensburg News. According to a statement made to a review man by Oscar G. Miller, a trustee of the lodge, the house will net this year above operating expense about eighteen hundred dollars. The total indebtedness of the lodge is $25,000, and the income from the opera-house will pay the interest on this entire debt leaving a margin of about four hundred dollars, to say nothing of the rent from the barber shop and flats. This is a very creditable showing, and will be pleasant information to the members of the order and those interested in the success of the opera-house undertaking.

HACKLEMAN WON THIRD POSITION

Young Orator Succeeds in Landing a Good Place in Association Contest.

HE SHOULD BE COMMENDED

For His Efforts in Mastering Oration
—Highest Position Ever Won
by Local Representative.

Ward Hackleman succeeded in carrying away third position in the State High School Oratorical contest held at Noblesville last night. The local representative went into the battle to win and finished well towards first place. This is the highest place ever won by a local high school student since they have been a member of the association. The results of the contest last night will serve to place the Rushville high school higher in the estimation of the other members of the association and will naturally make them a much-feared contestant.

Ward Hackleman had a topic of much interest; it was well written and well delivered. He has spent much time on mastering it and should be commended if he had taken last position. He has received training from Hon. James E. Watson and also many other orators, having made a trip to Richmond once to take a lesson in oratory.

A large crowd of enthusiastic followers of the red and black accompanied the representative to Noblesville on a special car and did their part in the attempt to win. They yelled lustily for their favorite at all stages of the game and never allowed him to think that each and every one of them was not behind him. The crowd arrived here last night about one o'clock and succeeded in awakening everyone on the way to their homes. They carried several drums with them, but nothing could be heard last night but drum, drum, drum of the big base drum.

A dispatch from Noblesville in the Indianapolis Star this morning said of the contest:

"Edgar Tillotson, representing the Lafayette high school, carried off first honors in the annual Central Indiana High School Oratorical contest held at Wild's opera house in this city tonight, taking for his subject 'Education or War.' Charles Anderson of Frankfort with his 'A Stranger Within Our Gates' won second place while third honors went to Ward Hackleman of the Rushville high school, who spoke on 'The Rise of Indiana.'"

"Other contestants were Eugene Goodbar, Crawfordsville; Augusta Hull, Noblesville; Wilbur Shirley, Lebanon. The judges on composition were Prof. W. O. Howe of Indiana University; Prof. B. F. Williams, of Valparaiso Normal, and Prof. E. P. Trueblood of Earlham College. Prof. Bousher, Prof. Philpott and Prof. Benton of Shortridge High School were the judges on delivery."

IT WILL BE GOLD NEXT.

Walter Kaler, editor of the St. Paul Telegram, who startled the world a few weeks ago with the announcement that he believed there was a quantity of lead or lead mines located near there, follows it up this week with a story to the effect that a silver mine is probably lying peacefully and undisturbed under Flat-rock's waters.

A widower who was married recently for the third time, and whose bride had been married once before herself, wrote across the bottom of the wedding invitations: "Be sure and come; this is no amateur performance."

CITY DADS WORK UNTIL LATE HOUR

Received Bids For New Unit Last Night—Did Not Award the Contract.

ADJOURNED UNTIL TUESDAY

When the Job Will be Let—Eleven Manufacturing Firms Were Represented.

The city dads were forced to work their gray matter more last night than they have for many moons in awarding the contract for the new unit, which is to be installed in the water and light plant. They heard the bids of the eleven different firms and then figured until the wee small hours of the morning. And then they did not award the contract, but adjourned until Tuesday evening when the work will be let.

The establishment of a new unit is something which has been looked forward to and anticipated by the people of the city for several years, and now there seems to be no doubt but what it will be installed. The improvement will not only mean a day current, but also much more. It will mean that the city will never be in danger of a big fire. In case the one engine now in the power house would break down there would be nothing to rely on and it would be necessary to close down until repairs could be made. But with the new engine work can go on the same in case of a break-down.

Eleven different manufacturing firms were represented at the meeting last night and all entered a bid on the improvement. The bid consisted of three different items, one for the engine, one for the piping and one for the generator. Some of the firms made a bid on the whole thing, others on one of the items and others on two of the items. This made the estimates varied.

The firms represented were Arbuckle & Ryan; Ridgeway Dynamo & Engine Co.; Western Electric Co.; Allis Chambers Co.; Ames Iron Works; Layne & Bodley; J. Clark, Jr., & Co.; Hoover, Owens & Pentschler Co.; Bass Foundry & Machine Co.; Ft. Wayne Electric Works, and F. Bissel & Co.

WORK OF HENLEY LEE BEARING FRUIT

The First Conviction in a Number of Resort Cases Was Made Yesterday at Terre Haute.

DONE THROUGH NEWSPAPERS.

The work of Clifford Lee and Loyd Henley, two former Rush county boys, is bearing fruit in Terre Haute, where they are carrying on a war against the red light district through the medium of the Star. The first conviction in the large number of resort cases was made yesterday, when Mrs. Fay Carter was fined $20 and costs. A number of other cases will come up for trial Monday.

STRAW HATS TODAY.

New York, May 15.—This is the day when by unwritten law a man may wear a straw hat, if he so wills, and so continue to do so unmolested until the 15th of October. The observance of the law was general today, indicating a return of prosperity.

The express service on 1,200 miles of electric railway in Indiana and 1,400 in Ohio will be turned over to the United States Express Company on June 1st. The deal, which has been under way for some time, has just been closed in New York.

The freight service will be continued by the traction line, as at present, but the lighter packages and strictly express matter will be taken over by the United States.

BECOMING ADEPTS IN TRACK ATHLETICS

Members of Track Team of Local High School Practice Every Evening.

HAVE SCHEDULED NO MEETS

Interest in athletics in the local high school has revived and a track team has once more been organized. The young amateurs are becoming adepts in the art of track athletics. They practice every evening after school, spending their time putting the shot, pole vaulting, doing the hurdles and short distance sprints. No meets have been scheduled with other high school teams, but their practice may help some if the field day is held here in June, when the high school athletes from all over the county will compete.

ASKS FOR LARGE SUM AS ALIMONY

Mrs. Athalia Ball Files Divorce Proceedings Against E. W. Ball,
Now in Oklahoma.

CHARGES CRUEL TREATMENT

Well Known People in Community—
Ball Resigned From City Council Recently.

Quite a surprise was sprung today when Mrs. Athalia Ball filed suit for divorce in the circuit court from her husband, E. W. Ball. In her complaint the wife charges cruel and inhuman treatment and abandonment. She also asks for $3000 alimony.

The Balls are well known people of this community, as the defendant had a large grain elevator here for a number of years which he recently disposed of and left for Oklahoma, where he will engage in a similar business. A few weeks ago, before leaving Rushville, Mr. Ball, who was then a member of the city council, resigned his position.

There has been a number of rumors current for the past few weeks regarding domestic trouble in the Ball household and those who predicted the divorce proceedings were also of the opinion that something of a sensational nature would be in the complaint. The attorneys in the case declare nothing more than is charged above was set out in the instrument filed by Mrs. Ball.

The St. Paul Telegram is responsible for this mollycoddle rooster story:

STOMACH LIVER LUNGS

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach.
Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

SINGING CLASS WILL MEET SOON

The Diapason Singers Are a Substitute For the Old Harmony Singers.

MADE MORRISTOWN FAMOUS

Will Meet the Fourth Sunday in May
—The History of the Organization.

The Diapason singing class will meet in the M. E. church in Morristown the 4th Sunday in May at two o'clock says the Morristown Sun. This class is a continuation of the Missouri Harmony class which organized in the year 1839 in Asbury Chapel. In the year 1836 Dr. D. S. McGaughey settled in Morristown. Being a trained vocalist with an excellent voice he organized a singing class of the young people of the neighborhood who were desirous of learning to sing which was continued until the members were married and scattered. The book they used bore the following inscription.

THE MISSOURI HARMONY,
Morgan & Sankey
CINCINNATI, OHIO.

In the spring of 1873 it was suggested the remaining members of the school should meet and sing the old times. The large crowd that greeted the old singers was a great surprise to them and they decided to meet each year on the fourth Sunday in May as long as there were a sufficient number left to sing. Their favorite selections being "Easter Anthems," "Liberty" and "Rose of Sharon," although they were familiar with almost the entire book. The class was led by Dr. McGaughey until his death in 1884, since that time by Dr. Porter, of Irvington, a nephew of Dr. McGaughey. At their last meeting in 1906 they found their number so small and the remaining ones so feeble it was decided to discontinue their meeting, but was suggested a younger class would take the work their fathers and mothers had done so faithfully. The Diapason class took the matter under consideration and decided to take up the work. Last year they organized with 59 charter members. The officers are Theophilus Hargrove, president; Alonzo Myers, vice president; and Florence Rock, secretary and treasurer.

The Diapason with the round note system was first taught in Morristown in 1861 by Stephen Dungan, of Franklin, he also taught schools in different localities in the State. Many books have been used in the vicinity since, but the popularity of the Diapason has never been surpassed.

Sprinkled Sand Over Oiled Streets After Short Time and Used Roller.

IS AS SMOOTH AS PAVEMENT

Has Proved to be Successful and Has Met With Approval of All the Citizens.

Our people who are oiling the highways may gain some information from the following which comes from the city of Vincennes, this State, that will be beneficial:

"A crew of men dressed a strip of two blocks on Fourth street, most of which lay between Seminary and Perry streets. The work completed at a cost to the property owners along the streets of about $30 and if the statements of the agents of the Standard Oil Company are to be relied upon and the testimonials from other cities that have tried the Standard road oil are to be believed, the work has produced a street as clean and in many ways more desirable than it would be had it been paved with brick. It is also said that it will last for considerable time without further attention.

"The work of dressing the streets was done by three men, including the street commissioners. The dirt and trash were at first removed from the street with great care, then with a sprinkler used for the purpose, the oil was applied to the street. It is estimated that not more than half a gallon to the square yard is necessary—but less than that amount was used. After the oil had stood on the street for only a short time a light layer of sand was sprinkled over the surface and a roller applied. Before the improvement was made all of the holes in the street, of any size, were filled so that it is at present as smooth as a pavement.

THE FRENCH POSTAL STRIKE COLLAPSING Rank and File Discountenance Revolutionary Movement.

Paris, May 15.—The striking postal employees at a meeting adopted resolutions appealing to the workmen's organizations to make common cause with them. The meeting was attended by representatives of the workmen who delivered inflammatory speeches, promised the postal employees immediate support and threatened, if necessary, to place themselves under the direction of the revolutionary general federation of labor. These threats produced a big scare, but there is a strong suspicion here that the leaders in the movement are bluffing.

The strike of the postal employees itself apparently has lost ground. The rank and file of the men seemingly are convinced that the agitators are acting for their personal end and as the tools of the revolutionary proletarian organizations and they hesitate to risk losing their permanent situations and pensions.

At Chartiers and Dijon the strikers, in view of the attitude taken by parliament in connection with the strike, voted to return to work. The government officials here continue to express confidence that the entire movement is collapsing.

These facts gave rise at first to a report that the night riders had murdered him in revenge.

Haggin's Defense Sustained.

New York, May 15.—Athole B. Reader, a mining engineer, whose wife, Ella Rawles Reader, has been prominent as a promoter, has lost his suit for $25,000 against James B. Haggin, the horseman and mine owner. The suit was brought in the supreme court alleging that Haggin had failed to pay a commission due Reader in connection with the purchase of Peruvian mining lands. Haggin denied he had made any agreement with Reader or that he had purchased the mining lands because of Reader's recommendation.

PROMINENT MEN WILL SPEAK

Many Eminent Members of Methodist Episcopal Church Will Participate in Exercises.

The Board of Sunday schools of the Methodist Episcopal church, which officially represents and directs all of the Sunday schools of the entire denomination, numbering over 3,000,000 scholars and 300,000 will celebrate its first anniversary with a notable gathering of Sunday school teachers May 19-23, in Terre Haute, Indiana.

Unusual interest attaches to this meeting as it is the first general demonstration since the organization of the Sunday School Board at the General Conference held in the city of Baltimore, May, 1908. Every section of the United States will be represented but it will have a special interest to the people of the Central West because of the accessibility of Terre Haute.

Rev. Dr. David G. Downey, Chicago, corresponding secretary of the Board of Sunday schools and Rev. Edgar Blake, assistant secretary, are the general officers in charge of the anniversary.

Among the best known speakers on Sunday school topics will be Bishop W. F. McDowell, Chicago; Bishop Henry Spellmeyer, St. Louis; ex-Governor J. Frank Hanly, of Indiana; Rev. Dr. F. J. BAD CONDITIONS IN OLD SHELBY

Secretary of the County Board of Health Writes About Grocery Stores.

LOCATED AT SULPHUR SPRINGS

Rats, Mice and Polecats Are Kept in the Same Room With Merchandise.

Dr. J. Willard Parish, secretary of the Shelby county Board of Health, writes us as follows says the State Board of Health Journal. "Citizens living at Sulphur Hill, this county, have informed me that two grocery stores located at that place, are not in a sanitary condition. They say rats, mice, opossum and polecats are kept in the same room where meats, butter and other eatables are placed on sale. The excreta from these animals is thrown out the back door. What steps should be taken to abolish this nuisance?"

We wonder what kind of people live at Sulphur Hill, that they purchase supplies from grocery stores which are kept after the method above described. Under the laws of Indiana, it is an easy matter to abolish such conditions. All the health officer has to do is to issue a command that the conditions shall be removed, and sanitary conditions be supplied. Upon refusal or neglect to fulfill this order, within a reasonable time, then the stores may be forcibly closed, and the matter tried out in the courts. The inspectors of the State Board of Health almost daily go through this formula of bettering conditions, and all health officers throughout the State have equal powers with the inspectors of the State Board.

We Had a Vision

That Main and Second streets were paved.

That a big bunch of school teachers were to be married this summer.

That none of the auto drivers had the "speed craze."

That Charles Hernley was booming Rushville instead of Brazil.

That the county commissioners had not had a session for more than a week.

The newspapers had all quit making personal attacks on people.

That Rushville had a Merchants Association which had located ten new factories.

That every church in town had instituted features including gymnasiums, reading rooms and quarters for a Club. That they were all lighted, doors open and everybody welcome seven nights in the week instead of only one.

That Vincent Young and Guy Gordon were soon to follow in Clell Maple's footsteps.

The City Park had been improved by the City Council putting sidewalks entirely around the outside. That there were flower beds, walks and rustic hedges and several other landscape features. That a large coliseum had been erected on the southeast corner in which "Union Meetings" could be held.

That Judge Sparks never got in a hurry.

That Orris Wellman, Wm. Helm, Melvin Moor and Ed Walker were all engaged to be married in June.

That our School Board had instituted "manual training" and were having carpentry taught to the boys and sewing and cooking to the girls.

That the new library was up and everybody pleased.

That everybody was enthusiastic for a greater Rushville.

That oiled streets in Rushville were in vogue and that there were to be no more dust storms.

That if all the money which has been expended in Rushville for the past ten years in buying mining stocks, zinc shares, oil stock and western lands of "foreign agents" had been kept at home and invested in factories, Rushville would be the greatest manufacturing center in Indiana.

That everybody believed in an old-fashioned heaven with "pearly gates, golden streets and jasper walls" for all the saints, and an "old-fashioned hell" with plenty of fire, brimstone and eternal punishment for all the sinners.

That the farmers had low prices again and the cost of living had decreased for city folks.

That Rushville had a ministerial association which met every Monday morning and included all pastors of the city in its membership.

That autos had grown cheap and we all had one.

That Rushville was one of the principal stations on the big "air ship" route between Indianapolis and Cincinnati.

That the Tri Kappa minstrel show was the greatest amateur event ever given in Rushville.

That everybody minded his own business.

That the Ananias club said nothing but kind things about people for a whole day.

That "inverted basket" hats and "tube dresses" were out of date and that small turbans and old-fashioned hoop skirts were back in style.

That the Wednesday Evening club had given an "open meeting" and had invited all the ladies.

That all the papers read in clubs and societies were original and nothing copied.

That the Monday Circle was publishing a literary magazine.

That we were to have a big chauntauqua this summer with high-priced talent.

That the regular weekly prayer meetings of all the churches were largely attended every Thursday evening by enthusiastic crowds of "real Christians."

That the Men's Big Meetings this summer would not be held at the West Washington street ball park in Indianapolis.

That Sunday schools were better than circuses.

That nobody "knocked" and that every person in town had put up his little hammer and joined the "Boosters Club."

That Rushville had grown like New Castle.

That the interurban line had been extended east from Connersville and that we could now take a fast car to Cincinnati.

That the Ladies Musicales would give a series of fine concerts next winter instead of the usual Lecture Course.

That there was more building in Rushville this spring than in Arlington.

That nobody ever opposed any public improvement.

That "Oom Jack" was wearing his flowing Danderey whiskers again.

That there would never be a Blind Tiger in Rushville.

That architects always looked first to acoustics, ventilation, light, interior arrangements with reference to utility rather than to outside show in all public buildings.

That Fred Capp had quit crying sales, and had joined all the lodges in town, in addition to buying a benzine buggy.

That all rich men had suddenly grown generous and were giving liberally to every public spirited enterprise.

That lawyers had quit scrapping in court and being real chummy on the outside.

That the population of East Hill was not increasing faster than that of Rushville.

That the fair grounds had been re-located at Riverside Park. That the river had been dammed near by and a fine stretch of boating water had been secured. That a fine park had been arranged there very convenient to the center of the city.

That the country people had forgotten we ever had the smallpox.

That the new Country Club was a hummer.

That a "bungalow" had been made out of the pest house.

That we all had tickets for Europe this summer.

That we could have a clean-up day in our hearts as well as in our homes.

That the spirit of Christmas should reign through all the year.

That the Juvenile court had helped all "delinquent and dependent" children and had admonished all neglectful parents.

That all politicians told the truth.

That the postal card craze was over.

That there was another land as fair as Rush county.

That there was no sadness or misery, no poverty or crime, no neglected children, no orphans, no dissipated men or broken hearted women, no saloons, no jails, asylums or poor houses, no sickly tenements or slum districts.

That there was plenty of sunshine and light. That happiness reigned everywhere. That there were only sweet children, strong men and virtuous women. That gladness dwelt in every bosom and joy bells rang in every heart. That music was always sounding and the melodies of the world chimed unceasingly. That all war and strife had ended. That the armies and navies of earth had disbanded. That every spear had been fashioned into a pruning hook and every sword had been beaten into a plow share. That peace reigned upon earth and good will among men.

—And wasn't that the nice dream?

Roycraft Philosophy

Co-operate and assist—not criticize and find fault.

The only right you need is the right to be useful.

If you would not be happy let not happiness be your aim.

If you suffer, thank God! It is sure proof you are alive.

A pessimist is one who has been intimately acquainted with an optimist.

All things work together for good, whether you love the Lord or not.

Every life is its own excuse for being, and should be judged as a whole, not in trivial parts.

Personal liberty is the art of discrimination—knowing what you don't want and leaving it alone.

It does not take much strength to do things, but it requires great strength to decide on what to do.

The great man is great on account of certain positive qualities that he possesses; not thru the absence of faults.

I would rather be able to appreciate things I can not have, than to have things I am not able to appreciate.

When any man begins to pride himself on being a learned man, that instant there is a very large blue-bottle fly in his cold cream.

Bees have a scheme whereby they eliminate the useless drones. That is where the bees set man a pace. But bees have no way of making a worker out of a drone, and possibly that is where we score one on B'r'r Bee.

A man owes his first duty to himself, and that duty is to be gentle in his acts and moderate in his judgments. Thus does he conserve his strength over against the time when it is most needed, and stands ready to seize opportunity when it comes his way.

INDIANA POLITICS

ROBERT G. TUCKER.

Indianapolis, May 15.—A gruesome prediction is made by Dr. Hurty, secretary of the state board of health. "Two thousand babies, now as healthy as any mother might wish her baby to be, will die in Indiana before cold weather sets in next fall because of poisoned milk," said Dr. Hurty. "The babies will be fed the poisoned milk through ignorance, of course, but the chief cause will be because the poisoned milk will be cheaper, and parents will not see the need of paying a little more and procuring milk which can be guaranteed pure. The figures may seem startling, but they need not be. They only seem so because I am giving you the total all at once. I can, by going through our statistics; show you that many babies were killed last year, and that many the year before from this same cause. We are trying to educate the mothers of the state to guard against this slaughter of their children, and we are educating them; but it is a long and tedious process, and the greed of man, which does not hesitate to feed upon the lives of innocent children, overcomes much that we teach."

A very hard fight is being made by the anti-saloon league to carry Madison county, but the result is in doubt. One of the anti-saloon league officials said today: "Anderson is making a vigorous campaign, and has been for some time, to influence outside factories to go to that city, and the liquor forces will be able either to enlist considerable sympathy and activity in their behalf because of the belief that a 'dry' town is not desirable as a factory site, or at least to induce a large number of business men to remain passive in the fight because of this belief. On the other hand, the experience of factory owners in towns which have voted 'dry' will be useful to the league in the Anderson fight to show factory conditions in a 'dry' town, all other conditions being equal, are better than in a 'wet' town. I believe we shall win the fight in Madison county, but there will not be anything like the majority of 'dry' votes we had in Delaware county." The Madison county election has been set for May 26.

Although Charles F. Loeb, of Martinsville, was forced by a county local option election to give up his saloon business, the appellate court declared that he can be held to the terms of his five-year contract to pay $55 a month rent for his room. He had two and a half years of his lease unexpired when his saloon was closed. He held that inasmuch as he had been forced out of business by law, that he could not be forced to pay the rent. The appellate court, however, ruled that the saloon business was not made illegal by the local option or remonstrance law and that Loeb must have known when he made the lease that he might be voted out of business.

Alleging that he is entitled to possession of the office of state house custodian, Thomas F. Colbert, Democrat, appointee of Governor Marshall, has brought suit against Charles J. Wheeler, Republican appointee. Colbert asserts that the law under which Wheeler was appointed is invalid, and that the legislature of 1897 gave the governor the authority to fill the place. He asks for the office and for $2,000 damages against Wheeler for holding it from him.

All pull for a public library—one last, strong pull together.

Perhaps Rushville will never again have the same opportunity to get a free library.

It is still Clean-Up Day with the several city teams engaged to haul away the debris.

It has been said that the pianists at the Vaudet and Palace theaters are great at playing the "Devil."

The advantages of oiled streets were very noticeable today when the wind was blowing at a rapid rate.

Many farmers in the Ging neighborhood who planted their corn prior to the last snow storm are planting over.

If you are a person of "resources" you will find a way to make a want ad serve you in the most of life's little upsets.

One rich fellow in Rushville has decided not to buy an automobile this spring, but will give his relatives a big chicken dinner instead.

Some little store will begin to advertise "more than it can afford" this summer—and will outgrow its present quarters in a few months.

Mrs. Elizabeth Pearsey, who has been severely afflicted with rheumatism at her home in West Second street for several weeks, is now much improved.

Richard H. Phillips of Posey township is still under treatment at Martinsville, but will return home this week. His son Charles of Arlington will spend Sunday with him.

There is such a demand for entrance into the library at Connersville that at a board meeting this week it was decided to keep the library open every night in the week, except Sunday.

The feature story of the Tri Kappa sorority editing the Daily Republican will appear with photographs of the girls "in action" one week from tomorrow in the Indianapolis Sunday Star.

Guy Koons, L. E. & W. agent at Mays was married Wednesday of this week to Miss Edna Swain. They reached Mays Thursday evening and were given a warm welcome by the young people of that growing town.

L. A. Hufferd has been employed for the fourth time as principal of the schools at Westfield. He is pleased with his school and the people and knows how to please them. Lot will spend his vacation as contractor and builder at New Castle.

In the olden days there were some opposed to the school coming into the wilderness. They argued it was an infringement and that it was unnecessary. There is just a sprinkling of that blood in the present generation—they are opposed to the free library.

An all day rally will be held at the Second Baptist church tomorrow. Rev. Shumake will preach in the morning and Rev. Leggett of the Second M. E. church will deliver a sermon at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The choir of the Methodist church will furnish the music.

CORONER THREATENED

Received a Letter From the Black Hand in Ketterling Case.

Hamilton, O., May 15.—There was a sensational development in connection with the death of Arthur Ketterling, the Miami university student, at Oxford, O., whose mangled body was found with the throat cut along the C. H. & I. railroad tracks Wednesday morning. Coroner Burnett has received a Black Hand letter in his mail, warning him to drop the case. The letter was postmarked at Cincinnati and written in a good hand. The coroner has turned it over to the post office officials.

Chief Millikin of Cincinnati has also received a similar letter, saying that Ketterling tipped the Black Hand off to the police and had paid the penalty.

Caldwell Awaiting Investigation. Columbus, Ind., May 15.—Charles W. Caldwell, the lawyer who sought to oust Philander C. Knox, secretary of state, from President Taft's cabinet, is in custody here awaiting investigation of a serious charge. Caldwell is married, and he is accused by A. M. Remy, of Elizabethtown, of making secret visits to his sixteen-year-old daughter, Belah Remy.

Cedar Rapids Wins Out. Boston, May 15.—Cedar Rapids, Ia., will continue to be the headquarters of the Grand Division of the Order of Railway Conductors. Although W. L. Taylor, formerly attorney-general of Indiana, and Charles A. Bookwalter, mayor of Indianapolis, made strong pleas in behalf of the Indiana capital city, they could not induce the convention to move the general offices.

Three Killed by Explosion. Key West, Fla., May 15.—Three men were instantly killed and twelve others badly injured when 700 pounds of dynamite exploded aboard a boat at Codjoes Key on the Florida east coast railway extension. It is believed that other men aboard the boat were blown to atoms.

FIRE IN TOWER OF COURT HOUSE

Caused no End of Excitement in the Down-Town District Last Night.

MUCH SMOKE ISSUED FORTH

Knots of Men Were Gathered About Breathlessly Waiting for Flames to Shoot Forth.

"The court house is on fire," was the cry that caused consternation in the down-town crowd about seven o'clock last night. From the tower smoke could be seen rolling out in a steady stream. For over an hour people gathered about and watched it and members of the fire department were summoned to be in readiness in event it was found to be a "real" fire. Some said it was caused by the custodian burning old paper in the fourth floor, or attic of the building, but this was soon denied. From the jewelry stores men came with telescopes and took a good peek at it. Sure enough it was smoke, and where there was smoke surely there must be fire.

Court Bailiff Grant Gregg was sent for and he opened the court house and hurried to the tower. He could find no sign of the flames, neither could he fathom from whence came the smoke. After he reported this, to the anxious crowd below that kept swelling, they were more perplexed than ever. The smoke kept coming from the point of the tower and for over an hour, or until it became too dark to see, the people stood around the square expecting every minute for a sheet of flames to burst forth. And what in the world do you think caused it? You never could guess. It was nothing more than a swarm of gnats. It seems incredible that people could be be fooled in that manner, but nevertheless, it is a fact. It was not until some one brought a powerful glass and got a good focus on the supposed smoke that the discovery was made. They would move about just enough to give it the appearance of smoke curling up from the building, and when the swarm would move out a bit, at a height of probably one hundred and fifty feet, it looked for the world like the smoke blowing away. For a second or two they could not be seen by the naked eye, but invariably they came back and took up their position, giving a correct imitation of smoke.

The BLACK BAG

By Louis Joseph Vance

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

Without waiting for a reply he lurched into his room and banged the door to. Kirkwood, divided between amusement and irritation, heard him stumbling about for some time, and then a hush fell, grateful enough while

"Ow, there you are, elgh, little bright eyes!"

It lasted, which was not long, for no sooner did the captain sleep than a penetrating snore added itself unto the cacophony of waves and wind and tortured ship.

Kirkwood, comforted at first by the blessed tobacco, lapsed insensibly into dreary meditations.

Of one or two things he was convinced—
for one, that Stryker was a liar worthy of classification with Calendar and Mrs. Hallam. His impregnable conclusion was that those whom he sought had boarded the Alethea, but had left her before she tripped her anchor.
That they were not stowed
away aboard her seemed unquestionable.
The brigantine was hardly large enough for the presence of three persons aboard her to be long kept a secret from an inquisitive fourth—unless, indeed, they lay in hiding in the hold,
for which, once the ship got under way, there could be scant excuse. And Kirkwood did not believe himself a person of sufficient importance in Calendar's eyes to make that worthy endure
the discomforts of a 'tween decks imprisonment throughout the voyage, even to escape recognition.

With every second, then, he was traveling farther from her to whose aid he had rushed, impelled by motives
so hot headed, so innately chivalric,
so unthinkingly gallant, so exceptionally idiotic!

"What else could I do?" he defended himself against the indictment of common sense. "I couldn't leave her to the mercies of that set of rogues. And heaven knows I was given every reason to believe she would be aboard this ship! Why, she herself told me that she was sailing!"

Heaven knew, too, that this folly of his had cost him a pretty penny, first and last. His watch was gone beyond recovery, his homeward passage forfeited.
He no longer harbored illusions as to the steamship company presenting him with another berth in lieu of that called for by that water soaked slip of paper then in his pocket—courtesy of Stryker. He had sold for a pittance, a tithe of its value, his personal jewelry
and had spent every penny he could call his own.
With the money Stryker was to give him
he would be able to get back to London and his third rate hotel, but not with enough over to pay that one week's room rent, or—

"Oh, the devil!" he groaned, head in hands.
The future loomed wrapped in unspeakable darkness, lighted by no least ray of hope. It had been bad enough to lose a comfortable living through a gigantic convulsion of nature, but to think that he had lost all else through his own egregious folly, to find himself reduced to the kennels!

Stryker, emerging from his room for breakfast, found the passenger with a hostile look in his eye and a jaw set in ugly fashion. His eyes, too, were the abiding place of smoldering devils, and the captain, recognizing them, considerably forbore to stir them up with any untimely pleasantries. To be sure, he was autocrat on his own ship, and Kirkwood's standing aboard was nil, but then there was just enough yellow in the complexion of Stryker's soul to incline him to sidestep trouble whenever feasible. And, besides, he entertained dark suspicions of his guest—suspicions he scarce dared voice even to his inmost heart.

The morning meal, therefore, passed off in constrained silence. The captain ate voraciously and vociferously, pushed back his chair and went on deck to relieve the mate. The latter, a stunted little cockney with a wizened countenance and a mind as foul as his tongue, got small change of his attempts to engage the passenger in conversation on topics that he considered fit for discussion. After the sixth or eighth snubbing he rose in dudgeon, discharged a poisonous bit of insolence and retired to his berth, leaving Kirkwood to finish his breakfast in peace.

CHAPTER XVIII.

TO the tune of a moderating wind
the morning wearied away.
Kirkwood went on deck once for distraction from the intolerable monotony of it all, got a sound drenching of spray and was glad to dodge below and dry himself.

He had the pleasure of the mate's company at dinner, the captain remaining on deck until Hobbs had finished and gone up to relieve him, and by that time Kirkwood was through.

Stryker blew down with a blustering show of cheer. "Well, well, my little man!" (It happened that he topped Kirkwood's stature by at least five inches.) "Enj'rin' yer sea trip?"

"About as much as you'd expect," snapped Kirkwood.

"Ow!" The captain began to shovel food into his face. Kirkwood watched him, fascinated with suspense. It seemed impossible that the man could continue so to employ his knife without cutting his throat from the inside.
But years of such manipulation had made him expert, and his guest, keenly disappointed, at length ceased to hope.

Between gobbles Stryker eyed him
furtively.

"Treat me all right?" he demanded abruptly.

Kirkwood started out of a brown study. "What? Who? Why, I suppose I ought to be—indeed, I am grateful,"
he asserted. "Certainly you saved my life, and"—

"Ow, I don't mean that." Stryker gathered the imputation into his paw and flung it disdainfully to the four winds of heaven. "Bless yer 'art, you're welcome. I wouldn't let no dorg drown 'f I could 'elp it. No," he declared, "nor a loonatic, neither."

He thrust his plate away and shifted sidewise in his chair. "I 'uz just wonderin'," he pursued, picking his teeth meditatively with a penknife, "ow they feeds you in them as-y'lums. 'Avin never been inside one myself, it's on'y natural I'd be cur'us. There was one of them institutions near where I was borned—Birmingham, that is. I used to see the loonies playin' in the grounds. I remember just as well!
One of 'em an' me struck up quite an acquaintance!"

"Naturally he'd take to you on sight."

"Ow! Strynge 'ow we 'it it off, elgh? You myke me think of 'im.
Young chap 'e was, the livin' sp'it an' himage of you. It don't happen, does it, you're the same man? He was alldis plannin' to run awye an' drown
'isself."

He wore the joke threadbare even to his own taste and in the end got heavily to his feet, starting for the companionway. "Land you this afternoon," he remarked casually, "come 3 o'clock or therabouts—peraps later.
I don't know, though, as I 'ad ought to let you loose."

Kirkwood made no answer. Chuckling, Stryker went on deck.

In the course of an hour the American followed him. The Alethea was within the wide jaws of the western Scheldt. Kirkwood approached the captain, who, acting as his own pilot, was standing by the wheel and barking sharp orders to the helmsman.

"Have you a Bradshaw on board?"
asked the young man.

"Steady!" This to the man at the wheel; then to Kirkwood, "Wot's that,
me lud?"

Kirkwood repeated his question.
Stryker eyed him suspiciously for a thought.

"Wot d' you want it for?"

"I want to see when I can get a boat back to England."

"H-m-m! Yes, you'll find a Bradshaw in the port locker, near the forward bulkhead. Run along now an' p'ly, an' mind you don't go tearin' out the pyges to myke pyper boatses to go sylin' in."

Kirkwood went below, found the designated locker and, opening it, saw first to his hand the familiar bulky red volume.

The strap removed, the book opened easily, as if by force of habit, at the precise table he had wished to consult.
Some previous client had left a marker between the pages—and not an ordinary bookmark by any manner of means.
Kirkwood gave utterance to a little gasp of amazement and instinctively glanced up at the companionway to see if he were observed.

He was not, but for safety's sake he moved farther back into the cabin and out of the range of vision of any one on deck—a precaution which was almost immediately justified by the clumping of heavy feet upon the steps as Stryker descended in pursuit of the ever essential drink.

"Find it?" he demanded, staring blindly with eyes not yet focused to the change from light to gloom at the young man, who was sitting with the guide open on his knees, a tightly climbed fist resting on the transom at either side of him.

In reply he received a monosyllabic affirmative. Kirkwood did not look up.
"You must be a howl," commented
the captain, making for the seductive locker.

"A—what?"

"A howl, readin' that fine print there in the dark. W'y don't you go over to the light? I'll 'ave to 'ave them shutters tyken off the winders."

"I'm all right," Kirkwood went on studying the book.

Stryker swigged off his rum and wiped his lips with the back of a red paw, hesitating a moment to watch his guest.

"Mykes it seem more 'omelike for you, I expect," he observed.

"What do you mean?"

"W'y, Bradshaw's first cousin to a halmanack, ain't 'e? Can't get oae,

"I 'uz just wonderin' 'ow they feeds you in them as-y'lums."

take t'other—next best thing. Sorry I didn't think of it sooner; like my passengers to feel comfy. No, don't you go traipsin' off to gay Parree an' squanderin' wot money you got left. You 'ear?"

"By the way, captain!" Kirkwood looked up at this, but Stryker was already halfway up the companion.

Cautiously the American opened his right fist and held to the light that which had been concealed, close wadded in his grasp, a square of sheer linen edged with lace, crumpled, but spotless and diffusing in the unwholesome den a faint, intangible fragrance, the veriest wraith of that elusive perfume which he would never again inhale without instantly recalling that night ride through London in the intimacy of a cab.

He closed his eyes and saw her again as clearly as though she stood before him—hair of gold massed above the forehead of snow, curling in adorable tendrils at the nape of her neck, lips like scarlet splashed upon the immaculate whiteness of her skin, head poised audaciously in its spirited, youthful allure, dark eyes smiling the least trace sadly beneath the level brows.

Unquestionably the handkerchief was hers. If proof other than the assurance of his heart were requisite he had it in the initial delicately embroidered corner—a D, for Dorothy!
Quivering with excitement, he bent again over the book and studied it intently. After all, he had not been wrong! He could assert now, without fear of refutation, that Stryker had lied.

PUT A CRIMP IN THE SCHOOL BOOK TRUST

Illinois Legislators Aroused
Over Chicago Expose.

Springfield, Ill., May 1'.—As a result of the schoolbook "gouge" expose at Chicago the Illinois state senate dealt a blow to the schoolbook combination.

By a vote of 48 to 0 it passed what is known as the Ettelson bill. The bill not only provides a maximum price at which text books of every grade and character may be sold in Illinois, but also is strong in provisions against schoolbook companies entering into any collusion. It likewise provides that local schoolboards shall not permit the books to be sold at a higher price than stated in the proposed law, and shall not contract for them at a higher price. It also provides that books shall be kept up to the standards established by the samples submitted.

For infraction of the proposed law or its spirit, publishers are to be barred from the state. The bill does not establish a uniform state standard, permitting boards of education to select books, but they must not change them often more than once every four years.

Death of "Sassafras George" Causes Excitement—No Motive For Murder Can be Imagined.

NO EVIDENCE OF SUICIDE

Body of George Blanton, an Odd Character in Hendricks County Found Dead

Danville, Ind., May 15.—With five bullet wounds in his body, but with no weapon of any kind near by, George Blanton, an odd character known as "Sassafras George," was found dead in a field near Barnard, northwest of here. The superficial evidence that Blanton was murdered is being probed by the county officials, although as yet there can be no motive established or even hinted at. The general belief seems to be that Blanton committed suicide, but the method used, if the man took his own life, has baffled the investigators.

Blanton was an inoffensive, odd sort of a man, who lived much to himself. He had no known enemies and it is not at present conceivable how it would be possible for him to fall victim of a murderous attack.

For years Blanton has been coming to Danville each spring with a wagon load of sassafras roots which he disposed of about town and this gave him the sobriquet of "Sassafras George." He was held in high regard by all who knew him and his mysterious death has caused intense excitement in the western part of Hendricks county and eastern section of Putnam county, where he was equally well known.

FATHER CORBY'S STATUE

Is to Be Erected on Historic Spot on Gettysburg Field.

Notre Dame, Ind., May 15.—An unusual religious incident of the civil war is to be commemorated by the erection of a bronze statue on the Gettysburg battlefield. The statue has just been completed in Philadelphia by Samuel Murray, the sculptor. It represents the Rev. William Corby, C. S. C., in the act of administering absolution to the Eighty-eighth New York Infantry just before the battle of Gettysburg. The statue will be placed on the exact spot where the chaplain stood when blessing the troops.

The project has received the hearty endorsement of Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishops Ryan, Ireland and Farley, and Bishops Shanahan, of Harrisburg, and Canevin, of Pittsburgh, have also written letters of approval and have sent in contributions to the monument commission. The alumni of the University of Notre Dame are specially interested in the placing of the statue, because Father Corby was president of the university for twelve years after the war. A large painting representing the historic act hangs on the walls of the University of Notre Dame. The picture was painted by Paul Wood, a student of Gregoire.

MORE TIME FOR AGAR

Cases Against Princeton Man Continued For the Term.

Princeton, Ind., May 15.—The trials of Henry E. Agar, on the charge of embezzlement, grand larceny and conspiracy to defraud insurance companies, will not come up at this term of the circuit court. Three of the embezzlement cases by mutual agreement of the attorneys for the defense and Prosecutor Trippett have been continued until the next term of court. It is presumed that when the conspiracy cases are called, probably within a few days, they will be continued in the same manner.

Probably Took His Own Life.

Charlottesville, Ind., May 15.—Joseph Smith, fifty-three years old, was found dead. An empty cup, which had contained carbolic acid, was found on the ground near him, and the belief is that he committed suicide. Mr. Smith had been in ill health and dependent for some time.

PATH OF TORNADO CROSSES 3 STATES

Storm Sweeps Over Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma.

Kansas City, Mo., May 15.—A series of tornadoes in Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma last evening killed at least five, injured fifty-five, devastated one town, wrecked a train and did great damage to property.

Twenty-five were injured by a storm that swept over Mount Washington and Fairmount Park, suburbs of Kansas City. At least two of these are thought to be fatally injured, and others seriously.

The town of Hollis, Kan., near Concordia, was swept away. Here three were killed and ten seriously injured. One family, consisting of five persons, is missing. Their house is in ruins and it is thought they are dead.

Near Great Bend a tornado killed two and injured twenty. All wires are down in that vicinity and it is feared the death list may be greater.

William Ackerly, a Santa Fe engineer, was killed while working on a bridge gang between Great Bend and Kinsley. Frank Nicholson, a conductor, was also killed. The tornado wrecked the work train of which Ackerly was engineer and blew it into a ditch. Several members of the crew were blown 100 feet. The pile driver toppled over crushing Ackerly to death in his cab, when he remained with his hand upon the throttle. The storm spread over a wide area, however, laid waste many farmhouses and injured many.

Many conflicting reports have been received. One had ten killed. At Hoisington, Kan., a tornado injured a number and greatly damaged farm property. It was not so severe, however, as that passing over other portions of the state.

At Pond Creek, Okla., a severe wind storm slightly injured four and unroofed several houses. A blinding rain and hail storm accompanied the wind in all three states. Many washouts demoralized railroad traffic and electrical disturbances crippled telegraph and telephone wires.

New York's Mayor Gives Shock to Women School Teachers.

New York, May 15.—Thousands of women school teachers in Greater New York received a shock when Mayor McClellan repeated his action of last year in vetoing the so-called equal pay bill, a measure putting the salaries of the women teachers on an equal footing with those paid the men. In declining to approve the bill the mayor said it would saddle an additional $17,000,000 burden on the city besides "disrupting the system of tutoring."

BEVERIDGE GOES AFTER BIG TRUST

Proposes Amendment to Curtail the Tobacco Profits—They Are Reaping a Harvest.

MILLIONS TAKEN FROM PEOPLE

Under an Uncorrected Provision of Spanish War Tax Schedule—Government Loses Too.

Washington, May 15.—Again the committee on finance was upheld when the senate voted down an amendment by Senator Cummins to lower the duty of round iron, etc., by a vote of 35 to 42 and upheld the house rate which was recommended by the senate committee. Much time was given up to a debate on the profits of the United States Steel corporation and personalities were freely indulged in by senators. This occurred after Senator Root had spoken in defense of the finance committee and in criticism of the failure of that committee to provide more ample information concerning various schedules. Mr. Money, addressing himself directly to the senator from New York, resented what he characterized as a lecture to the senate, and said that if the senator from New York desired less speaking in the body, "he should do less of it himself."

Senator Beveridge proposed an amendment to the tariff bill increasing the tax on tobacco and its products and charged that by continuing the short-weight packages of the Spanish war period the tobacco trust was reaping a harvest of $21,000,000 a year.

"In 1898 the tax on all forms of tobacco was raised in order to supply the government with a needed increase in revenue," said Senator Beveridge. "But at the time congress put this increased tax on tobacco it authorized tobacco manufacturers to reduce the size of the package in which the tobacco was sold to the people. This enabled the manufacturers to collect the tax from the consumer. Congress made the manufacturers pay a bigger tax, but permitted the manufacturer to sell a smaller amount of tobacco for the same price formerly paid for a larger amount of tobacco."

"In 1901-'02 this increased tobacco tax was removed, but the short-weight package of tobacco was continued by the very law that removed the tax. Nor did the manufacturers restore the larger packages of tobacco after the tax had been removed; neither did they reduce the price. Therefore, for seven years the people have been compelled to pay the same price for these smaller packages which congress authorized in 1898, while the manufacturers have been relieved from the increased tax which these short-weight packages enabled them to collect from the people."

"The manufacturers still collect the wartime tax from the people, but instead of paying it to the government they keep it for themselves. All told the government has lost $184,090,557.43 in the last eight years. Most of this has come out of the pockets of the people and gone into the pockets of the manufacturers."

BRIDGE WASHED OUT

Wabash Passenger Train Wrecked in Missouri and Several Lives Lost.

Kansas City, May 15.—A Wabash passenger train ran through an open bridge into Bull creek, near Randolph, twenty miles east of here last night. The engine, baggage and mail cars fell into the water. Several trainmen are missing, but no bodies have been found. The accident was caused by a washout. The train was running slowly and none of the passenger coaches went through.

The Want Advertisements Are "Humanizing"

When more people come to use and answer Want and For Sale Advertisements, more people will know each other—

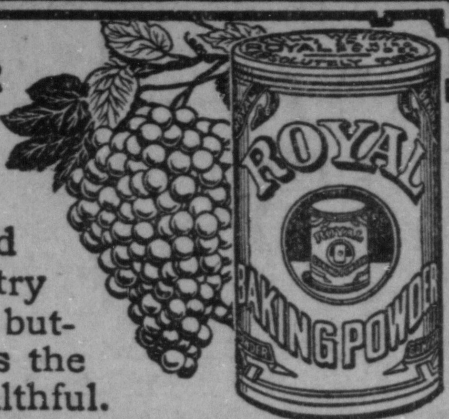

MORE PEOPLE WITH MUTUAL INTEREST WILL MEET—

more people will find channels and opportunities for reciprocal service. Truly, the Daily Republican Want Ads are "humanizing" people—shaming away the scorn of small things, the scorn of "bar-gaining," of exchanging useful but not used things for useful and usable ones.

FURTHER IMPROVEMENT

Bradstreet's Review is of a Generally Encouraging Tone.

New York, May 15.—Bradstreet's weekly review of trade today says: Irregularity still characterizes the trade, crops and industrial situation. In industrial lines the consensus of reports is that further improvement has been registered, especially in the iron and steel, coal, coke, woolen manufacturing and leather trades. Building is active and lines of trade catering to this industry are feeling beneficial effects. It is a between-seasons period in wholesale and jobbing distributive trade; orders from retailers are merely of a filling-in character and hardly equal to expectations. The tone of opinion as to the outlook for fall trade is as a whole rather more optimistic, but the evidences of repression in trade, whether due to tariff and crop uncertainty, reduced purchasing power of the public or high prices for foodstuffs, are too evident to be ignored.

COLORED WOMAN FOUND A WATCH

Mrs. Nelson Brown Was Rewarded For Her Honesty—Found in Show Day Crowd.

REAL VALUE OF THE WANT ADS

Another Woman Recovers Garnet Pin Today—Sale of a Wagon Peanut Roaster.

It won't do you a bit of harm to read this article on want adism. It is an institution that is growing faster than any other in America and now that we look back at the past we wonder how in the world we got along without want ads for so many years.

Want ads are a medium that bring the interests of people together at a comparative small cost and result in no end of good. Many people have made fortunes or had the foundations of their fortunes laid through the want ad business. Why, even many men and women have been married through this very avenue.

The Rushville Daily Republican was one of the first small city dailies in the country to take up the department and work it on a scientific basis. A careful and thorough campaign of advertising was carried on through our columns and now nearly every person in the county is well acquainted with the good results to be obtained and the want ad business is growing in larger proportions from day to day.

An example of what the department means to people of this community and how widely it is read every day is exemplified every day in this office. Take today, for instance: One fellow was in bright and early, who placed a "for rent" ad in the paper a few days ago, paying twenty-five cents to have it run a week.

"For heaven sake take that ad out," he said, "they are running me to death. And I rented the house the first day after the ad appeared. I forgot to tell you to take it out."

If you want to test the pulling qualities of the department, just run a line or two asking for a hired girl. They come in swarms. Mrs. Nelson Brown was one of the happy individuals in an ad drama today. She found a watch lost by Mrs. Frank McCorkle on show day and when she returned it to this office in answer to an advertisement that appeared just once, she received five dollars reward. But she was not one whit happier than Mrs. McCorkle.

Mrs. George Urbach lost a valuable garnet pin this week and through a want ad recovered it today. Al Robinson returned the pin and received one dollar reward.

Mrs. Ray McKee lost a hand-painted belt this week which she recovered yesterday through this medium. It was found by Miss Bertha Owens, daughter of Henry Owens, who attends school in Indianapolis.

A. P. Wagoner advertised a second hand organ for sale this week and sold it almost before the ink was dry on the advertisement. He said he could have disposed of twenty of them, so numerous were the applicants.

City Marshal Price had no trouble in disposing of a good horse this week in the want ads. The only complaint he had was that so many people pestered him after the animal was sold.

T. E. McAllister advertised a wagon peanut and pop corn roaster for sale one evening this week, and was of the opinion that he was throwing the money away, for he thought who in the world would want to buy such an outfit in this country at this time. Just the same, a man came from Arlington the following morning and bought the roaster.

And so it is. There were many such cases today and every day this week, that we never heard anything about. The want ad business has come to stay. And why shouldn't it? If it will make people happier, wiser and wealthier.
